The german on Friday night was probably the best entertainment of the kind ever given in Helena. The costuming was exceptionally elegant. The decorations, while very simple, were effective, for they at least partially disguised the cold bareness which always seems to prevade Encore hall; and it will be a great relief, not only for the Encore club but also for assemblies and social gatherings generally, when the Encore club take possession of their new quarters. The various committees having the german in charge worked hard and conscientiously, and nothing was neglected. Even the tickets with which the seats were numbered were neatly gotten up, and the favors were quite in keeping with the general excellence of the entertainment. Both Messrs. George Hill and S. E. Atkinson proved themselves able leaders. There is probably nothing so trying to a man's patience and perserverence as conducting a german, but the above mentioned virtues will overcome anything, and the easy way with which these gentlemen handled some thirty-two couple was evidence that they possess them in no small degree.

One very amusing and original figure was that in which a dummy played an important role. Four large boxes made in the shape of a square demijohn and capable of covering a gentleman sitting in a chair were arranged in a row behind the curtains where the favors were concealed. Before the curtains were drawn back three gentlemen were hidden under these domes, together with one law figure, which, when gentlemen were hidden under these domes, together with one lay figure, which, when revealed, was exceedingly life-like, in full dress suit, patent leathers, white tie, etc., and somewhat resembling (barring the stony stare) a sunburnt effigy of George Childs. Four ladies were in turn brought up and permitted to select any one of the aforesaid domes, which, when their choice had been made, were removed, revealing to three at least an animate being, but to to three at least an animate being, but to the disconsolate fourth merely a lay figure, who helplessly stared into vacancy and was not disturbed in the least by the laugh-ter which followed his fair partner's dis-

There were present Messrs. Wallace, Reed, Shelby, Cox, Davenport, Carpenter and Prof. Hershfeld. Box A, for Wednesday night, after some spirited bidding by Messrs. Wallace, Red and Hershfeld, was knocked down to the latter gentleman at $30, upper C to Mr. Muth for $12, and upper D to Col. Shelby for $11. For Thursday night, Mr. Porter got box A for $12, and upper C sold to Mr. Wallace for $10, and upper D was reserved.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cannon gave two progressive euchre parties last week at their home on Kodney street, the one on Monday evening being given chiefly to the younger set, and on Thursday evening to the younger married set. A new game—or rather an old game rechristened—was introduced, "Diamond Cut Diamond," which savors a good deal of hearts. Handsome prizes were given, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. The rooms afforded ample room, the refreshments were excel-lent and the two evenings were greatly enlent and the two evenings were greatly enjoyed by those participating. At Monday evening's party there were present the Misses Flowerree, Carpenter, Wade, Knight, Biaine, Barbour, Mrs. Wm Flowerree, Hervey Barbour, and the Messrs. H. Mr. J. Lansing, from Butte, seemed to be pretty well favored Friday night.

Miss Birdie Rumley, who gave such valuable aid on the decoration committee for the german, leaves on a visit to Butte on Wednesday next. She hopes, however, to see "Erminie" played there on Saturday next.

NOTES AND QUERIES. A Bashful Man wants to know-"If a young man who is favored during the german by a young lady is entitled to call on her?" Hardly; but such a propitious opening will, if properly handled, bring about the desired result and possibly end in a wedding.

Emma asks-"Is it fair to ask a lady at the german, no matter how well acquainted the gentieman may be with her, not to forget to favor him?" No; but the bantering of favors is often indulged in.

THE GREAT SILVER CAMP.

Business in Good Mining Shares Brisk-

Notes On Future Operations. BUTTE, May 4 - | Special to the Independent.]-The past week has been, like its predecessor, an active one in mining affairs in the great copper and silver camp. Mining brokers, without exception, say that there has never been so much inquiry after good reliable mining stocks from the outside, and at present it is impossible to see what will prevent a permanent and substantial mining boom for the whole territory this year. The important mining events of the week have been the return of Marcus Daly from the east with definite news about the new smelter, and the action of the Lexington company in determining of the Lexington company in determining to lower its shaft. The rebuilding of the Anaconda smelter was an accepted fact and was announced definitely in the INDEPENDENT some days ago. Mr. Daly furnishes the further information that the new building will be of iron, and that this course will cost 40 per cent. more than if he had determined to rebuild with wood. The contract was let to Connecticut parties, and they agreed to begin shipping the material within forty-five days. Construction will commence as soon as the material begins to arrive, and the contract stipulates that the arrive, and the contract stipulates that the building is to be completed in ninety days. That is a wonderfully short time for the construction of so enormous a building, and shows how anxious the Anaconda is to get its output up to the old standard.

This week the Levington company took its output up to the old standard.

This week the Lexington company took a most important step in letting a contract to run its main shaft down 280 feet below its present level. The Lexington is already the deepest shaft in the camp, being down 1,120 feet, and this new venture will take it to the 1,400. The Alice is but 1,000 feet deep, the Anaconda 1,000, and other mines not generally over 700. There is no reason to doubt that the mines of Butte can be successfully worked to the depth to which the Lexington is going, as indications at the present depth are excellent. tions at the present depth are excellent. But the sinking is nevertheless an experiment, and the whole of the mining community is interested in it, as it will in a measure indicate Butte's future. The sinking of the shaft these additional 280 feet will invalid an outlay of about $20. feet will involve an outlay of about $30,-

The Alice mill has been running sixty The Alice mill has been running sixty stamps during the week, the seventy stamp mill lying idle while being repaired. Most of the ore has come out of the Magna Charter mine, the Alice itself being extensively prospected and some ore being taken out of the 200, 400 and 700 foot levels. Superintendent Hall professes himself well satisfied with the condition of the Alice properties.

On the return of Mr. J. C. Savery from On the return of Mr. J. C. Savery from the east a few weeks ago, the Cable mine was started up and run for a short time. Reports were circulated that a rich pocket had been struck in the mine, and that gold would soon be a very cheap commodity about the Cable on account of its plentiness. The mill is again shut down, however, though there is no doubt that there is a quantity of rich ore on hand. Probably Mr. Savery does not need any money just at present. It is said that he only runs the Cable mill when he gets short of cash for his extensive operations in lowa and New York.

Southern Cross stock, of which a large amount is held in Helena, has decidedly strenghtened and sales were made this week at fifty cents. The shaft is now down 250 feet and at that depth a cross cut down 200 feet and at that depth a cross cut showed twenty-six feet of excellent gold ore. At this depth a level was run west on the ledge 100 feet and the cross-cut at that point shows twenty-two feet of ore. The mine has now been developed to a sufficient extent to justify the erection of a twenty stamp mill. There is ore enough in sight now to run such a mill for a period of years.
